Building a Competency-Based Curriculum Architecture to Educate 21st Century Business Practitioners
Using Peer Review to Improve Student Writing in Business Courses

The Journal of Education for Business is for those who educate tomorrow's businesspeople. This peer-reviewed journal features basic and applied research-based articles concerning accounting, communications, economics, finance, information systems, management, marketing, and other business disciplines. Articles report successful innovations in teaching and curriculum development at the college and postgraduate levels. Changes in today's business world and in the business professions fundamentally influence the competencies that business graduates need. JEB offers a forum for authors addressing those areas or proposing new theories and analyses of controversial issues.
